

About the company:

Dharambir Food Processing Technologies Private Limited, popularly known as Kissan Dharambir, is a President's award-winning grassroots innovation business that manufactures and sells multipurpose food processing machines for improving livelihoods of rural and agri-based households, businesses and small farmers.

Multi Purpose Food Processing machine is a portable machine, which can process a wide variety of products without breaking the seeds of the fruit or vegetable. This machine can be used for processing Aloe vera (making juice, hair gel, face wash, shampoo, hand wash, extract, powder), mango, (chutney, jam), amla (juice, powder, extract, hair oil, candy, sweets laddoo), tulsi, aswagandha, satavar, herbs (juice, extracts), flowers like rose, chameli, lavender etc. (extract and essence). It also works as big pressure cooker with temperature control and auto cut-off facility. It also offers condensation mechanism, which helps in extraction of essence and extracts from flowers and medicinal plants.

The business is headquartered in Yamunanagar, Haryana and has factories in Yamunanagar and Faridabad. The machines are however, popular and sold across the whole of India and also outside India in certain countries of Africa.

The business has won several awards nationally and internationally, including President of India's medal for Grassroot Innovation and is well-supported by reputable social enterprise incubators like Villgro.
